WHAT'S NEW AT

CREDIT CARD SECURITY

To protect our customers from identity theft, we are now asking for the CVV (Card Verification Value) security code for all credit card transactions.

The CVV security code is only printed on the credit card; it is not contained in the magnetic stripe information or on sales receipts or billing statements. You must have the card in your possession in order to use this code. By giving us your CVV, you are helping us to ensure that the order is being placed by you, the card holder.

For Visa and Mastercard, the three-digit CVV is printed on the signature panel on the back of the card immediately after the account number. For American Express, the four-digit CVV is printed on the front of the card above the account number.

WHAT IS MYCFS?

A MyCFS account allows you to shop securely at our online store, as well as giving you secure access to your personal customer information, such as order history, vouchers earned, license code, and renewal information.

Your MyCFS account is also the key to accessing CFS Online Research products you have purchased (Tax Research, California Research, Audit & Collections).

If you don't have a MyCFS account, it's easy to register. Just go to www.taxtools.com and click on "MyCFS" under the Support menu. On the MyCFS page, click on "Register for a MyCFS Account." You will need to provide a valid e-mail address and a password.

NO CA SALES TAX ON DOWNLOADS

According to current California law, as a California company we must collect sales tax from our California customers for all sales of "tangible personal property." This means that our California customers must pay sales tax on any paper supplies or on software purchased on CD.

However, software downloaded from the Internet is not considered "tangible personal property," and is therefore not subject to sales tax.

Some of our programs, such as CD Fill-N-Print and CD Research programs, must be purchased on CD. However, most of the programs on our CFS Software multi-program CD are available for purchase by download.

If you purchase a program from us and download it from the Internet without receiving the program on CD, you will not be charged California sales tax on the program.

*However, if either before or after you download a program you receive a CD containing that program, you will have to pay sales tax on the program.

Here are a few examples of how this might work:

Example 1: You purchase TaxTools on CD in March and pay sales tax on it. In April, you decide to purchase Small Business Tools as a download. Even though you download the program, you must pay sales tax on Small Business Tools because the program is on the CD you received for TaxTools in March.

Example 2: You purchase CA Sales Tax Preparer by download in April and do not pay sales tax on it. In May you decide to order Financial Planning Tools, but you request a CD. You must pay sales tax on Financial Planning Tools and on your previous purchase of CA Sales Tax

Preparer, because both programs are on the CD you received in May.

Example 3: You purchase TaxTools on CD in March. In August, you purchase W2/1099 Payroll System and download the program. You do not have to pay sales tax on W2/1099 Payroll System because it was not included on the CD you received for TaxTools in March.

Of course, non-California customers do not pay California sales tax on any CFS products.

ONLINE RESEARCH TUTORIAL

We have created a tutorial for our online research products. The tutorial uses examples to illustrate how to navigate, search, and get the most out of such features as Bookmarks, Search Templates, and Saved Searches.

To view the tutorial in Tax Research, California Research, or Audit & Collections, click on the "Tutorial" button in the upper right corner of the main menu screen. The tutorial will open in a separate window.

If you haven't purchased our online research products and would like to learn more about them, go to www.taxtools.com and, from the Products menu, under Research Software, select Tax Research. At the bottom of the page describing the program features, you will find a link to the tutorial.

Online research products contain the same information as the CD versions in a web browser interface similar to the interface used in our CD research products. Advantages include: content is accessible from any computer with Internet access; content is more current, due to more frequent updates; content is more extensive, as it is not limited by the size constraints of a CD.

NETWORK INSTALLATION TIPS

Network versions of CFS programs run the program and access the data on a central computer. There is a Network Upgrade charge because of the added costs of production and support.

There are three types of networks that CFS programs may be installed on:

- Peer-to-Peer Network – a group of computers connected together to enable sharing of resources.
- Server Network – one computer, the server, is dedicated to storing program and data files.
- Terminal Server – the programs run remotely on the server. This allows the use of inexpensive workstation computers as the work is done on the server. Citrix is an example of this type of network.

The user has a choice of two methods of installing CFS programs in a network environment:

- Install the program and the data files to the server computer or a single computer on a peer network. On a Terminal Server, this method must be used. The advantage is that all users are running the same copy of the program. If an update is necessary it is only done once.
- Install the program on each computer and share data on the server or one computer on a peer network. This method is commonly used on older networks to limit the amount of data sent across the network so the program will run faster.

A combination of methods can be used. You might have a group of workstation computers running the program on a server and simultaneously on a laptop computer that may or may not be connected to the network.

Terminal Server. The programs must be installed on the server if you are using Terminal Server networking. Consult the manufacturer of your network system for instructions.

Server Network. If you are installing the program to run from the server, the installation must be performed from a workstation computer. First, at each computer map a drive letter to the network location where you want to locate the data. We will use F: as an example. Install the program to the F: drive. We recommend that you keep the default path (i.e., F:\CFSLIB\TT2006). Run the workstation setup program, located in the F:\CFSLIB\TT2006\WSSETUP folder, at each of the other computers.

Programs Installed Locally. At each computer, map a drive letter to the network location where you will store the data. Install the program at each computer using the default settings. At each computer, start the program and click on Configuration. Set the data path to point to the network data location.

Peer-to-Peer Network. Map a drive letter at each workstation to a main computer that you want to contain the program and data. Install the program at the main computer using the default settings. Run the workstation setup at each other computer.

The first time you start the program on any computer, the Add User screen will display. The user name stores the configuration of that workstation. Add a user name for that computer.

If you have questions, please consult the Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) page at www.taxtools.com or call Technical Support at (800) 343-1157.

MICROSOFT ENDS 98, ME SUPPORT

Microsoft announced that, as of July 11, 2006, it will retire support for Windows 98 and Windows Me, stating that the products “are outdated and can expose customers to security risks.”

Also citing security issues, Microsoft announced that, as of October 10, 2006, it will no longer support Windows XP Service Pack 1.

Microsoft encourages users to upgrade to the more secure XP Service Pack 2.
